

Learn to teach practical horticulture

Royal
Botanic Garden
Edinburgh

UNIVERSITY
OF ABERDEEN

Certificate in Practical Horticulture Instructor/Assessor Course

2nd November – 14th November, 2013

In collaboration with Hawaii National Tropical Botanical Garden on the island of Kauai, Royal Botanic Garden Edinburgh is delighted to be able to offer the well established and internationally recognized RBGE Certificate in Practical Horticulture Instructor/Assessor Course (CPHIA).

This course is specifically aimed at horticultural professionals who are career gardeners or involved in teaching horticulture with a desire to extend their own practical gardening skills while gaining the confidence and competence to deliver the RBGE Certificate in Practical Horticulture (CPH) back at their own institution. **

The course will be delivered within the grounds and Living Collection of NTBG by the Laura Cohen, Principal Developer and Tutor of the CPHIA course and Mark Paterson, Curator of Cruickshank Botanic Garden, University of Aberdeen. Both Laura and Mark have extensive horticultural and educational experience and have delivered the CPH and CPHIA over the past seven years within the UK and overseas.

For further information and booking, go to: www.ntbg.org/programs/education-crsint.php

To find out more about the CPH and CPHIA courses please email Laura Cohen l.cohen@rbge.org.uk

Source: <http://www.vbmap.org/america-maps-5/map-hawaii-186/>

Hibiscus brackenridgei- Hawaiian State flower

Source: <http://roamingbarbara.blogspot.co.uk/2013/04/flora-and-fauna.html>

 On this course, all the participants will be CPH Trainees doing the CPH course and exam, along with gaining teaching and assessing experience at the same time. All participants will also receive tuition on how to teach and deliver the CPH course and how to assess it, gaining the overall qualification of CPHIA.

BGCI

Plants for the Planet